

NewYorkBIO

Fellows Program 2022

NewYorkBIO supports the development and growth of New York State's life science industry, and serves its members and the life science community by providing a network for public policy, industry advocacy, and community development.

About the Fellows Program

The Fellows Program offers companies the opportunity to access NewYorkBIO's extensive services, benefits, and network to help them grow. The program offers a two-year scholarship providing early-stage life science companies of seven or fewer employees with full access to the complete NewYorkBIO portfolio of benefits, including the NewYorkBIO purchasing consortium and discounted access to seminars, conferences, and networking events.

Who Can Apply

Early stage life science companies of seven or fewer employees that have received less than $5 million in funding.

NewYorkBIO offers its members the opportunity to take advantage of several of the BIO Business Solutions® savings programs

Apply

Life science entrepreneurs who are interested in becoming Fellows must complete the application online: www.newyorkbio.org/join/fellows-program/ Fellows will be notified upon acceptance and will immediately gain access to the full array of NewYorkBIO member benefits and programs. Upon acceptance, Fellows will receive a one year free membership, renewable for a second year. At that time, Fellows may apply for regular NewYorkBIO membership.
